Dealing with the Pandemic, Online Exhibitions.

The House of Cards Exhibition, from my own back garden.

Next I had to think about publicity, promotion and the platforms that I had available to me. I already owned an account on the social media platform called Instagram which had just under 200 followers, completely dedicated to my art practice and posting updates on what I was currently working on.

To the right is the post that I produced and promoted on my Instagram and Facebook page, through stories and posts. I decided to make the poster bold and striking to stand out and appeal to my social media audience. The posts reached around 50 of my followers who saw and interacted with it.
